

Additional profanity and indecency on television must be stopped. If the prerogative of the FCC is to make television so profane and indecent that it cannot be viewed by educated middle class adults and their children, then it will force me to simply remove my television from my home.

It appears that this is what is expected by the FCC.

By continuing down this road it is clear that the FCC, and therefore the U.S. government, wants to destroy American family values by making television a window into which families can view a cesspool of soul rotting images and behaviors.

A government by the people and for the people should NOT be bending to pressure from television producers and money making machines in Hollywood, it should be bending only to the people which it professes to represent.

STOP allowing this filth into our homes. American does not want it or need it.
