

If the FCC chooses to lower the threshold or standards for what is deemed suitable vs. indecent for network television during primetime hours (when children would likely be awake) I will cancel my subscription to AT&T U-verse and we will not have any network or cable television in our home. I am not alone in this position; parents and responsible Americans will send a clear message that further erosion of standards of decency will not be tolerated.