Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

Comment: Our family is responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. We oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. This in turn influences our culture and results in further deterioration of human behavior. There will be NO benefit or public good that results from this. Please do not reduce these decency standards any lower than they have already gone.

The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Weakening the standards will definitely allow the broadcasters to present greater vulgarity and sexuality on TV.

Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. I would love to say that I am shocked and surprised by attempts to add vulgarity and nudity to broadcasts, but unfortunately I am not. There is a downward spiral of morality in our country and the world in general. People accused of being old-fashioned are looked down upon. There is a loss of traditional Values which is shameful. Traditions are there for reason, because they have been found to hold value to individuals and to societies. When traditions are let go due to a change in popular belief, unfortunate outcomes will occur. Please, please do not loosen the standards in place. I wish they were tighter!

Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. I would love to say that I am shocked and surprised by attempts to add vulgarity and nudity to broadcasts, but unfortunately I am not. There is a downward spiral of morality in our country and the world in general. People accused of being old-fashioned are looked down upon. There is a loss of traditional Values which is shameful. Traditions are there for reason, because they have been found to hold value to individuals and to societies. When traditions are let go due to a change in popular belief, unfortunate outcomes will occur. Please, please do not loosen the standards in place. I wish they were tighter!

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

I find there is more than enough sexuality and related discussion to keep me from watching a number of TV programs. Please retain the current decency policies.

Comment: Pay TV Services is already becoming overrun by profanity and nudity. At least households can chose not to subscribe to pay TV. But the public airways are the last refuge for entertainment that is not laced with foul language, sex and violence. Please keep it this way by not relaxing the FCC standards that are currently in place.

I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

In addition to what a member of the Family Research Council wrote above, I will just add some things.

A King James Version of the Holy Bible says the following in Ephesians Chapter 4 Verse 29: Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers.

In First John Chapter 2 Verses 15-16, a King James Version of the Holy Bible says the following: Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world, if any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. Verse (16) says: For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world.

For those involved in making the decisions concerning FCC regulations as well as for information for any and all people, please think deeply about what is written here. In order to go the wrong route and aide in the destruction of the youth, families, and society as a whole, relaxing the authority to prohibit certain language as well as nudity will definitely help do that; but please do the right thing to better help the youth, families as well as society as a whole, and stand against and or do what you can to persuade, or act to put stricter provisions in place for indecency on television.

I am already screening "family" channels when watching with my family and if the standards are lowered any further, I WILL be ending my cable TV and will only view programs that we can choose via the internet. Please keep common decency in broadcasting and keep the smut to payed cable channels only.

Come on people! Children do not have to be exposed to nudity or raw language on television. It is increasingly hard to find appropriate programming for children in any of the programs available during family time now. Please keep or even make stricter guidelines for this time!

Comment: I am writing to urge the FCC and oppose possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity, period!! It will worsen the already sad demise of the decency of our society, at least what's left! The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit such indecency during hours when children may be watching. Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

Comment: I am firmly against the FCC weakening enforcement of indecency standards on T.V. Current rules against obscenity, indecency, and profanity already leave too much room for broadcast networks to pollute television. These laws being as they are, their enforcement is the responsibility of the FCC. Do your duty, as a commission to the public, and investigate all complaints, including backlogged ones, and imposing consequences accordingly! This is your responsibility.

Again READ MY LIPS....DO NOT CHANGE BROADCAST DECENCY STANDARDS TO ALLOW NUDITY AND PROFANITY MORE THAN THERE IS ALREADY!! If broadcasters would like me to watch more tell them to clean things up more!!! I'm so bored with the constant junior high sexual innuendos and if writers can't come up with any more ideas than making things cruder then fire them!

Comment: As the FCC has requested comments on possible changes to broadcast decency policies by May 20, I am writing to let you know that I strongly oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards. These standards have been enacted by the Congress and the FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching; we cannot afford to pull these safeguards from our children now. Relaxing the standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. Does our nation want to encourage more vulgarity and sexuality on the elementary school playground" I think not.

Please, protect the integrity of family entertainment and do not relax the broadcast decency standards.

In my opinion I think TV and movies are a contributor to such tragedies as Boston and Connecticut. If anything we should be ratcheting back !

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I not only oppose any changes to the current broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress but would encourage the decency standards to be even stronger. The FCC should never weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. I get it, I'm a man who enjoys female nudity now and again but to allow even one fleeting moment of nudity, male or female, for a child's eyes is criminal. Very young and they don't get it, but between the ages of about 3 to 18 carries suggestive thought that may over time encourage rape, killing, and others like molestation. Haven't we already learned that too much violence on television carries through the children's thoughts and spirit to produce a very negative influence that eventually turns to mimic violence. Just give it a thought to when you were 8 to 16 years old. You were restricted greatly in what you saw on television. Remember all the complaints over

"I Dream of Jeannie", because her belly button showed. We didn't have 12 year old murderers and 14 year old molesters. If any changes are made, lets change to make the restrictions even more restrictive.

Comment: I am outraged that the FCC is considering allowing more indecency in Broadcasting. Because the standards have already been so relaxed, pornography has greater influence on our media culture than ever before. As a concerned citizen of the United States, which is a government by the people and for the people, I want to remind you that it is not the will of American families to allow media indecency to influence our children, and neither is it our will that such filth run our culture and country into the ground. By the your authority and the will of the people, I demand that you uphold the indecency standards and strengthen them.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

Comment: I am opposed to changing the FCC regulations on nudity and obscene language. The current standards greatly favor "Hollywood's" already immoral standards. Doing what the FCC is proposing will only make things go from bad to worse.

I only use broadcast channels in hopes to avoid the indecency of other viewing options. Don't take away the only protection we have!

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I am against any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity, there is nothing intellegent about profanity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching, it also does not add intelect for the adult viewer. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. There is no good reason for this to be allowed, it does not make the point of sale any better, but it does have the prospect of making people feel worse because once again most of us do not look like what most of this advertizing depects.

I am already appalled at the amount of nudity and profanity on TV. Where have our values gone" Do you not remember our country was founded by Christians. Christian values should be remembered and honored or we will lose our freedoms. We've already lost many of them. There is FAR to much vulgarity and sex on TV & movies now! Please do not make this influence worse than it already is.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013.

It is hard to conceive why any reasonable and informed person would countenance such a backward idea.

I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

Freedom of speech does not require freedom of extreme profanity and obscenity. The source of this retrogressive idea must only be a handful of broadcasters selfishly seeking higher ratings at the expense of children, families, and those who know better.

The tone of public discourse is harmful enough without aggravating it further.

Please do not hasten our descent into the gutter by allowing even "fleeting" instances of profanity or nudity. The same technology that allows any home viewer to re-examine a sports play frame by frame belies the argument that any nudity is "fleeting".

I pray you will at least develop SOME KIND of conscience concerning the standards you're trying to feed into the very vulnerable minds of the children God has entrusted to us. More nudity and/or profanity is certainly NOT going to encourage them to become moral, ethical and upright citizens! My entire family WILL boycott the stations who allow this to happen.

What good can come from that" If people want vulgarity they can find it almost anywhere. Lets not subject innocent children to it.

Comment: We are responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. We oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. Further, the FCC should be more aggressive in responding to complaints from the public, and in enforcing the decency standards that are already in place.

Furthermore, this should not even be up for consideration. I continue to be disappointed in the changes I see happening all over television and the media in general. PLEASE uphold common decency. Life is hard enough on all of us - especially our children.

Thank you

I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. Please, uphold the standards of decency to help protect our nation's families and children from the corruptions of indecent TV.

There are only a few programs I even watch and most of those are the oldies. I am amazed at the message we are sending our children in today's programming. I know some people don't care but there are those of us that do. Enough already!

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

It is hardly safe for my preschoolers to watch a Sunday afternoon football because of all the scary vampire-type commercials. No parent likes to be woke up in the middle of the night because their preschooler is scared, let alone because of a commercial for a show that they would never allow the child to watch.

I do not understand why the FCC is even considering these changes as there is already more than enough profanity and sexual content on television. If anything, the FCC needs to provide more restrictions on what is already being shown on television, instead of attempting to relax the vulgar and profane content that is already allowed.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. Broadcast TV is currently overloaded with profanity and sexually suggestive scenes in commercials as well as in regular programming. Further instances of profanity or nudity is not needed. Enough is enough. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards are not in the best interest of these developing minds. It is our obligation to protect them; not influence them at an earlier and earlier age. Please reconsider expanding what is already too much coming across our airwaves that we sometimes can't presently avoid.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

Comment: I recently learned that the FCC has made a request for comments regarding possible changes to its broadcast decency policies. Apparently there is a desire on the part of the FCC to relax its policies to allow fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. I would like you to know that I would oppose that move towards weakening the policies currently in place and would instead urge that the current policies be enforced. Allowing more sexuality and vulgarity on TV, particularly during what is known as "the family hour", would be inappropriate and would open the doors for a minority of people to dictate what floods into the majority of homes.

Comment: I think the FCC should NOT relax profanity and nudity standards but get MORE strict. At our home, we don't watch network or cable TV because the language, images and subject matter ALREADY are too vulgar, indecent and inappropriate. We each need to fear God and follow His wisdom and ways (with the help of the Holy Spirit and salvation through Jesus) and love what He loves and hate what He hates. Typical TV shows extol what is wicked and reject what is good. Viewers and thus citizens reflect this corruption in society. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Brian and Jeanette

P.S. We do try to watch some of the Olympics but often don't watch much of the major ceremonies such as recently seen in London's closing ceremonies.

I strongly believe the reason for so much violence in society today is due to the inordinate amount of time children spent watching TV. To add profanity and nudity will only increase violent and deviant behavior in the future.

I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. There are already too many suggestive and indecent programs on during the day and of course, pornography and vulgarity available at almost any hour. I am in favor of placing more restrictions on profanity and nudity on all public and cable TV stations all 24 hours.

The cable companies are trying to go out of business with this kind of stuff. I for one will shut off cable if this happens!

I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. Fact is in my opinion they should be tougher by not allowing the laxness there is now with regard to language and nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. It's bad enough as it is and once aired, even illegal it's entered the minds of impressionable children. Clean up what we have - don't make it worse!

Comment: I strongly appose making any changes that would allow greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. We have enough filth circulating on the Web. Please enough already! I take pride in our Nation for not being as liberal as Europe or the rest of the world for that matter. So please make us proud and uphold the laws of morality and decency that this great nation was founded upon. My God bless the children of the Puritans that settled into the Americas!

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I strongly oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them even further than the amount they have already been weakened in practice to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. I am afraid to imagine what specifically would constitute "egregious" cases of broadcast indecency this is what Pay-Per-View channels are for, not network television, especially during hours where children are expected to be watching.

The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching, so I urge the FCC to do so. First of all, relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. Categories such as obscenity and pornographic material are exceptions to First Amendment rights, and for good reasons. Secondly, the purpose of our First Amendment was to allow for free exchange of ideas that enrich art, culture, political dialogue, etc. I do not believe that vulgarity and nudity in this medium serves such purposes. Thirdly, I believe that lowering the bar on what is in good taste tends to lower the artistic quality standards for media: it's easier to combat low ratings by flashing gratuitous nudity rather than rising to the challenge for artistic excellence through smarter writing, more creative concepts and compelling acting, etc.

We need to raise the bar (or at least enforce the existing bar) for morality's sake, not to mention for art's sake.

I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies. Because the FCC has historically been the guardian of broadcast decency standards in the United States I am appalled that it would even consider relaxing them by the proposed changes. I must therefore strongly express to you my opposition to any weakening of the existing broadcast decency standards which have been enacted by the Congress. This means that I expect the FCC not to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity by the broadcast media. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing of these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity, nudity and sexual innuendo behavior being portrayed by broadcast TV.

As a matter of fact, I request that the policies be strengthened. The amount of indecency and vulgarity that is already allowed is outrageous. Please show that you actually care about our children and having influence for good character instead of bad character and don't change the decency standards except to make them stronger instead of weaker.

It is well-documented that sexual predators use exposure to nudity and vulgar or indecent materials to groom their intended victims to cooperate with them. Relaxing this standard would result in some of the prep work being done in the children's own homes for these monsters. Standards for decency should be raised, not lowered.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

Please reconsider you decision. Parents can't monitor their children 24/7. It looks like the only option for many will be to completely block all broadcast channels and stop watching them altogether.

Comment: Please do not implement these more lax standards. We actually need stricter indecency policies, not loosened ones. Defining down decency has had a terrible effect on our country-PLEASE do NOT make it worse.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I VERY MUCH oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when CHILDREN may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. IT'S A SLIPPERY SLOPE!!!

Comment: I DO NOT want the FCC to relax its standards regarding profanity and pornography in its broadcast decency policies. Already, we find it difficult to find programming. that we can watch without being embarrassed. Rather than relax its present policies, I believe higher standards should be required. Exposure to perversion of this kind is not good for children OR ADULTS.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

People are great about capitalizing on relaxed standards like this. TV broadcasters are out to make money, and they will always work to draw more viewers, whatever the cost. This relaxed standard is an awful idea. After all, don't most shows already have "fleeting instances of profanity or nudity" Why change a law that, in practice, already allows for these things" Broadcasters already take the current regulations to include those things. Heaven only knows what they would interpret the lower standard to include.

Thank you so much for listening to your common American constituents on this issue and for representing our desires to keep the law as it is currently worded.

Comment: I am concerned that the FCC has requested comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies, apparently due next week. As it is, I'm not thrilled with the indecency on television today, so I'm against any changes to the broadcast decency standards that would lower the standards even further. The FCC should not allow even brief instances of profanity or nudity, especially during hours when children may be watching.

As it is a lot of family shows already has bad language. I stopped watching Modern Family for the bad words used.

Comment: I would like to comment on the FCC's request for comments regarding changes the committee is considering to its broadcast decency policies.

I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. In addition, many adults are also sensitive to, and offended by, indecent programming on TV. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

Please maintain current standards of decency.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. In our opinion standards already too lax for Dancing With the Stars. Remove all dresses NOT 5 inches or less above the knee and Hip forward movements Please!!!

Comment: We are responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies due on May 20, 2013.

We strongly oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by Congress. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity.

The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

The FCC needs to do the right thing and strengthen the decency standards, not weaken them.

The country's children and families are already reeling at the impact of all the vulgarity and promiscuity portrayed on TV. I personally do not want to watch it and I don't think families should have to put up with it.

Thank you for considering my opinion.

Why the nudity and vulgarity craze" Why is it considered the vogue to have a filthy mouth or be dressed like a prostitute" Is it cool to be a tramp or a fool" You folks better wake up because you are selling our children to devils so you can have your stinking fun with sex and the money it makes.

The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV.

Comment: I am responding to the FCC's request for comments on possible changes to its broadcast decency policies that are due on May 20, 2013. I oppose any changes to the broadcast decency standards that have been enacted by the Congress that would relax or lower the standards. The FCC should not weaken them to allow even fleeting instances of profanity or nudity. The Supreme Court has recognized the FCC's authority to prohibit indecency during hours when children may be watching. Relaxing these standards will only lead to greater vulgarity and sexuality on broadcast TV. Rather than relaxing these standards, I encourage the FCC to do a better, more thorough job of enforcing the standards already enacted by Congress.
