

If people want the filth that is out there, there are plenty of places to have it, but we need to have some stations that are required to have standards that keep it off the airwaves so that children and even adults that don't want to watch or hear these things can still have programs without profanity and more sex scenes. There are too many unsupervised children in our world and we should all work at keeping our children as safe as possible. Why would the government proposed filling our children's minds with things that are wrong and corrupting? Ask any educator, any child psychologist that is worth their weight in salt and they will tell you this is not good for our youth. While we can hold parents accountable, sadly there are too many parents that don't care. Our leaders must care, or it shows that they are not leaders, but contributing to the demise of our society and what is proper and good for all. Please rescind your proposal. If people want the trash, they there is pleny out there. It's already bad. We don't need to make it worse.

Paul Doletzky a concerned parent