A few more thoughts from Glenn (again, if ranting is defined by quantity of words spoken, Glenn is a person of very few words. Television is ranting)

The book I checked out of the Library "theories of everything" is a good book. However, the Holy Bible KJV still comes first. Glenn must not fall into the trap and start being sarcastic and ridiculing people in his mind and speech after reading some of those cartoons. The book is good. Glenn must remain in the light and remember to love thy neighbor as thyself (thy neighbor being every other human in the world) and loving the Lord thy God with all thy heart, soul, and mind.

Many times Glenn's conscious is tried on whether he should be reading the bible at that very moment. Again, what's more important is to remember the words of the new testament, without the book-bible in front of you. Glenn has observed in the past a big weakness is reading the bible, and the moment I put it down, I immediately forgot what I read.

Sometimes reading the bible in public is a trial. I don't do it for show. Again, bible reading in public is a tricky thing, but it's all good.
