

To Whom it may concern, I live in Kansas City, Missouri and I have lived here for 15 years. And among the years I've lived here I always listened to 94.9 KCMO FM in Kansas City Area. I use to love Oldies 95 when it was around but since about 7 or 8 years ago it went away and who ever is running the station now has no idea what they are doing. There are only 2 DJ's all day long and continuous songs playing over and over and You can't even make a request because they very limited in there music Library. They also use to play the Golden Oldies Party on Sunday Nights But they took that away because i guess they think that "nobody likes 50's and 60's music" I'm 51 and i grew up in the 60's and Remember the music well. Since no oldies in Kansas City anymore. Ive had to invest in Sirius XM and I didn't want to pay for it but i had to while living here. I even commented on KCMO FM's Facebook page and asked them to bring back the Oldies and they didn't even reply back to my comment instead they just deleted it.. Which I thought was Rude on who ever is running the stations profile page. I don't care who likes or dislikes that station. But If I was running a station I wouldn't be treating the listeners like the way 949 KCMO is to theirs..
