

Please retain the strict standards against expletives and nudity for network TV and radio. Children are better off when they aren't exposed to this type of material, and it is much harder for parents to protect them from that if it could show up unannounced, even when just flipping through radio stations or network TV channels.