

I just cannot believe how raunchy TV has become. Not just the commercials, but the regular network programming. What I find interesting is my two young adult children and their comments about TV. My daughter who attends college, said she and her roommates all say when they have kids, there is no way they will let them watch TV...videos only. My 25 year old son says "mom, it's awful when grandma and I are watching TV, it's so embarrassing". I'm sorry, but TV viewership was huge a number of years ago, when there was not a ton of sex and semi-nudity. I guess the writers were more creative then.
