

I am 100% opposed to any changes to the current FCC indecency standards that would allow television and radio stations to broadcast expletives and nudity on the public airwaves.

Already, I've seen and have been affected by an increase in sexually charged programming on cable tv stations at totally inappropriate times on family viewing channels like HBO and Showtime. To think that this could happen with greater frequency even on non-cable channels is appalling and has no social value whatsoever, other than to make more money for the TV broadcasting moguls.

I urge those of you at the FCC to take a stand for what is in the best interests of the public, especially the children and young people, and not bend to the demands of Television Networks.
