

I am writing to ask that you not consider becoming more lax on standards of decency for broadcast television. There is no value to the average American citizen in television programming containing profane language, nudity or anything of the sort.

Thank you for your time.

Richard Cramer