

As an evening viewer I am asking you not to relax the current policies regarding nudity and language. There is certainly enough questionable material and programming on television at this point and makes it very difficult to find programs to watch with children.