

Lessening the indecency restrictions is a horrid plan for lightening the FCC's work load and backlog of complaints. It will only cause more degradation of our society, more complaints, and allow profane and obscene material to reach our children who are already witnessing more than any child should. If the FCC wants to lessen its workload, more indecency restrictions will help. Lessening the societal corrosion of this country will lessen the workload of not only the FCC, but just about every other governmental agency; and the debt created by our society's moral decline. (ie. Police and correction facilities, healthcare, divorce, court proceedings, government hand-outs, etc.)
