

When morality goes missing women are always harmed, because they are objectified.