

Please do not change the limits on nudity and profanity on television, especially during the hours when school age students will most likely be watching. We, as a nation, as adults, as guardians of the children that will grow up to lead us in the future, would do well to protect them from adult realities before due time. Allow our youth to have a childhood that encourages creativity, a free spirit, and a charge to work hard in their studies, instead of one that would fill their precious minds with images and language that is too heavy for them to bear. Please rethink the proposal, there are already enough choices to indulge in nudity and profanity through the Internet and cable if one chooses. Thank you.
