

I believe the allowance of nudity and profanity on network television during prime time puts our children, youth, and society at risk as it further desensitizes them to what healthy body images are, and healthy self-respect and the development of their own self-boundaries. Also, I believe the rampant usage of profanity reduces the articulateness of our society, and the ability to engage in open communication and problem-solving with positive outcomes.