

This change is unnecessary and non-beneficial. The standards are already lackadaisical. I already do not allow my children to watch live tv due to the fact that R movie and mature video game commercials already infiltrate day time tv. I fully support free speech as it pertains to art. Adults should have that right. However, I do not see how lowering the standards to expose children to more mature content is or could be beneficial to anyone. I do not have cable or watch live tv because I feel the standards are already subpar, I suscribe to Netflix, & I watch shows & news online, when my children are in bed. I feel that if this passes, more people will choose to lower their ridiculous cable bills and do likewise.
