Dear Marlene H. Dortch,

I oppose any changes to the current FCC indecency standards. The FCC must continue to vigorouslly oppose ALL indecent comment, even if brief.

The Supreme Court has affirmed the FCC's authority.

I urge the FCC to reject all proposals that would allow for the broadcast of expletives and nudity on FCC licensed stations.

Sincerely,

(Per.) Charles Reinbold

Dear Madam Secretary,

The Supreme Court has ruled that the Federal Communications Commission has the authority to enforce policies prohibiting the broadcast of indecent material during the hours that children are likely to be watching or listening.

Please do not relax these policies; to do so will not serve the public interest. Violence, nudity, vulgar language and expletives have no place in supposedly family entertainment.

Sincerely,
Joan M. Campbell

To Whom IT MAY CONCERN: Greetings

Knowing that children say what they hear, it comes with much concern about what our public airwaves and TV, and cable, are allowed to air. It might be "cute" the first time 3 yr old grand-child says "S--T." Where did that come from. Maybe Dad, Grandpa, neighbor, or perhaps Cable TV!

"We don't talk that way."

As a child growing up in the 50s we didn't hear anything like that. I can't say that is still the case. Language, style of dress (male & female) has ~~to~~ certainly changed over the course of time. Subject matter has changed so much; if you don't "know how" just watch, - it will be on TV, and worse yet - its our "right to know"

It is a difficult job to say "No" to your child(ren) when "everybody" is doing it!!

Your office has the law on its side: USE IT!
Curtailed obscene language and subject matter! Or is it to gratifying spending the perks?

Sincerely yours,
Wally Heubner

CG Docket Nos. 13-24 and 03-123

I am writing to express my concern about a recent change to captioned telephone service that requires my phone to be in the "captions off" mode at the beginning of every call. As someone who depends on captioning in order to communicate with others over the telephone, this is extremely inconvenient.

I have significant hearing impairment and hearing over the telephone is particularly difficult for me. Captioned telephone service makes an enormous difference in my life. With captioning, I can stay in touch with my family and friends and easily conduct business over the phone. I know that in an emergency I will be able to get the help I need. There is no one else in my home who uses my captioning telephone without needing it, so forcing me to begin every call with captioning in the "off" setting is unwarranted. I now must take extra steps in order to have a phone conversation similar to anyone without difficulty hearing on the phone.

I hope that the FCC will reconsider this change based on the needs of people like me.

Sincerely,

JUNE L. WATREN
