

I am really tired of having to pay fees to see informational commercial broadcasts. This is especially on weekends. The companies doing the broadcasts pay as they should. However, I should have a choice as to if I want to pay to watch these commercials. I am retired and have a fixed income. I am not looking to see commercials of homes to buy daily nor am I willing to pay to see commercials of vacuum cleaners such as the shark, etc. Those who want to see such commercials should have the capacity to select these channels as needed, but should not be a part of regularly forced programming. I have had enough. Television is supposed to be entertainment. I do not consider selling me items to be entertainment. Since my income does not allow me to purchase so-called premium channels, I should have an option not to have to pay for commercials. Additionally, this allows broadcasters to get paid from the companies presenting the commercials as well as those of us who have no choice but to watch. HELP!!!
