

I oppose any changes to the current FCC indecency standards that would allow TV and radio stations to broadcast expletives and nudity on the public airwaves, even if brief or "fleeting." The FCC needs to not only follow the guidelines which are in place, but also prosecute breaches of those guidelines, instead of dismissing cases as "stale" which have been left un-prosecuted for years. The FCC is in place to serve the public, which owns the airwaves, and not the entertainment industry.

Thank you for considering my comment.
