Dear Ms. Dortch:

On August 5, 2013, on behalf of the GPS Innovation Alliance, Russell H. Fox, counsel for Trimble Navigation Limited (“Trimble”), and M. Anne Swanson, counsel for Garmin International, Inc. (“Garmin”) (Trimble and Garmin, founding members of the GPS Innovation Alliance, are collectively referred to herein as the “GPS Parties”), met with Roderick Porter, Deputy Chief of the International Bureau (“Bureau”); Jennifer Gilson, Assistant Bureau Chief; and Robert Nelson and Chip Fleming of the Bureau.

As active participants in the above-referenced proceedings, the GPS Parties expressed their continuing interest in the Commission’s consideration of LightSquared’s various pending applications and revised proposals. The GPS Parties are committed to working with the Commission and LightSquared on the challenging interference issues relevant to the Global Positioning System (“GPS”) and the many millions of government and consumer users that rely on GPS for a multitude of applications, including applications critical to health, safety, and major industry operations. The GPS Parties support a careful and complete assessment of LightSquared’s proposals. Until the record is complete regarding, among other things, proposed use of the 1626.5 – 1660.5 MHz band for uplink signals, the Commission should take no action on the pending requests. The GPS Parties look forward to working constructively with LightSquared and Commission staff on these matters.

Please do not hesitate to contact the undersigned with any questions.

Very truly yours,
