

I just wanted to add to the comments of the many people that are concerned about changes to the decency laws. It's unbelievable that the FCC would even consider making changes that could be so harmful to the general public, adults and children alike. I hope that you will keep the well-being of the general public in mind instead of selling out to broadcasters that want to fill television and radio air waves with inappropriate and explicit material.