

More and more TV programming and other media is being viewed on the internet. Because of this, the CALM act needs to be expanded to include internet programming.