

Since researching this issue extensively and knowing several people who cannot tolerate being in areas of cities where celltowers are, or WiFi in restaurants, I strongly encourage the commission to be much more restrictive on exposure limits from what they are currently. Frankly, I think it is criminal for celltowers to be cited anywhere near elementary schools. We need more consumer protections in the wireless world we are now living in.