

To the people working that the FCC,

I can not believe how bad the programs on TV have gotten, especially on the major networks. The content of homosexuality, family life, language, and the lack of clothing is disturbing. I cannot in good conscience allow my son, who is 9 years old, to watch any prime TV on any of the major networks. If he wants to watch TV before bed we are having him watch "MeTV", or "AntennaTV". It is no wonder that the youth of America are the way they are; disrespectful of parents and authority figures and cursing as if it is acceptable. If the shows you allow to "Damn" everything than why not "Damn" Mohammad, or Buddha, or any other gods that may be out there. It is a great offense to me and others when you allow shows to use GD, or the "f" word, not to mention other curse words. You at the FCC greatly influence today's youth by the shows you allow on TV. As a parent I try my best to protect my child from the filth that is out there. I miss the days when a family could sit around the TV enjoying shows and laughing together. I guess if I had to put a positive spin on the garbage that is on TV, it would be that we do spend more time outside. If whoever is reading this is a parent, how can you work at the FCC and think that what you allow to be shown on TV is appropriate for your child, no matter what the age is? I am just an ordinary person who speaks for a lot of people who believe the same as I do about the programs that are on TV. Please put back on TV shows that are family friendly. Shows with good moral values. Than maybe, just maybe you may see a change in today's youth. Thank you for taking the time to read my note. Amy M. Thomas
