

I feel it is critical to maintain hosted web communications as part of the E-Rate service offerings. Having a well developed and supported system for collecting and sharing school information is critical to school and community communications.

Free services cannot address this need, and to use existing free sites and tools requires technical expertise and time that school districts simply do not have.