

If the FCC allows full frontal nudity of women on public tv, then when does it become indecent exposure for children? As a parent, my child and I could be watching regular tv and during a commercial it has nudity. How am I to shield my child from seeing this? Also, If you are going to show nudity of women, then do not discriminate against men. If a woman is nude then so should the men. I believe if you allow nudity on public tv (free tv) atleast allow it after certain hours. I would hate to be watching the news with my 9 year old and all of a sudden a commercial pops up with nudity. To me... that is indecent.
