

Javier Martinez
San Antonio, Texas 78254

Access to the internet is a non-negotiable for students in our global society. Their ability to connect with others around the world to share knowledge, varying perspectives and unique approaches to problems facing our planet is essential. On our campus we are just now exploring the enormous advantages of digital learning and have quickly learned that greater and dependable connectivity to digital learning must be available if we expect our students to compete with those countries who have made a national commitment to digital learning on a national scale.