

We have had this happen a few times and it would be nice if the companies gave a warning first before just charging. Give the consumer a chance to do something about the charges before they happen.