

Using broadband connections of individual consumers to link TV network performers unauthorized by the consumer to use their connection activity is an exploitation that should be illegal. No doubt, it is immoral.