

7520963001.txt

I support the proposal to amend part 97 of the association for Commission's Amateur Radio Amateur Radio Service Rules.

The current limitations are outdated. Lifting the symbol rate limitation would allow for better use of the amateur radio bands. Since it would allow for more traffic in the same bandwidth, it would also allow for more efficient use of the currently allocated bandwidth. This is particularly important when hams are volunteering their skills in supporting emergency communications.

This change would have no negative impact on amateur radio operators.

---

David Wagner, AK4G0