Dear FCC,

Please strongly consider to allow each AM operator/owner to apply for an FM to rebroadcast AM programming, and allow the ratched rule to go away, since it really is an outdated rule. Technology and electronics have changed so much since those rules were put in place. The past 20 years there has been an increase in interference coming from consumer electronics and the power grid itself. To allow AM stations the chance for an FM translator and do away with lowering power at night for those stations which have had to, would help out AM stations financially, & to better serve the stations communities. That is the goal right?

Thank you for your consideration,
