Please spare us from being forced to listen to more inane chatter and loud posturing from other people's cell phone conversations. On the train or in a restaurant or grocery store one can just move to get away from it, but in a plane, where does one go [remember, there are only 2 toilets in economy]?? Allowing these calls is going to cause more stress and anger in an already tense situation, both for airline staff and passengers. Do NOT allow this, please!
