

To the FCC

1. The Adirondack Park Agency has done very well in dealing with cell towers, and has been doing so for some years now, protecting the scenic beauty and other important aspects of the Adirondacks.
2. The rules now being considered by the FCC should exempt those places in the Park that have standards already set for cell towers by the Adirondack Park Agency, and they should be allowed to stand.
3. What the FCC has planned for cell tower expansion, if a generic one, will not work in the Adirondack Park.
