

To FCC:

The Adirondack Region in New York State is one of the great wilderness areas in the world. A generic, nationwide plan for cell tower expansions will not work in places like the Adirondack Park that have valuable scenic and historic resources.

The APA already has a successful policy for the siting and modification of cell towers, which has protected the scenic beauty and ecology of the Adirondacks for 12 years. This existing policy should not be negated!

The proposed cell tower rule should exempt those areas that have established standards for cell towers, such as the Adirondack Park. The proposed rule should not interfere with states that have environmental regulations that are superior to those of other states. New York State takes pride in the way we protect our environment, unlike many other states!!!!

Thank you for considering my comments.
