Against unrestricted talking on cell phone on planes.

>A boggle of cell phone conversations in the close quarters of a plane will be disturbing to all passengers.

>Some people have a naturally loud voice that carries

>There will definitely be confrontations, plane rage (replacing road rage) not only because of general loud disturbance, but also over language used and subject matter.

>Language used and subject matter is uncontrolled and will be offensive to many passengers.

>Why permit a system where you 100% know there will be rage problems and the consequences.

>People can survive w/o a phone conversation for a couple of hours.
