

To Whom It May Concern:

Protecting the distinctive beauty and fragile ecology of the Adirondack Park must our highest priority.

To protect the Adirondack Park from the intrusion of taller and larger cell phone towers, you must exempt the Park from the new nationwide plan that allows the building of the new larger cell phone towers.

These big towers violate appropriate standards for the size of cell towers within the Park, the very standards that were established by the Adirondack Park. The Adirondack Park must be allowed to protect itself from the intrusion of these new unsightly towers. It is of the utmost importance that you exempt the park from the new nationwide plan that allows bigger, taller towers. The Adirondack Park must use its own set of standards and guidelines for any new towers to be constructed and built within its boundaries.

Sincerely,
Susan Stone
