I am in favor of changing or removing the current FCC indecency standards that punish television and radio stations that broadcast expletives and nudity on the public airwaves, brief, "fleeting", or otherwise

Retaining the current policy does not serve the public interest. any such restraint in this matter belongs to, and should be the sole responsibility of the broadcaster as it answers to its demographic and audience at large.

Placing censorious language restrictions is both unconstitutional and is not the role of government under any circumstances

I urge the FCC to rescind all restrictions and allow for the broadcast of expletives and nudity on FCC-licensed stations.
