

CitizenLetter®

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

ATE FILED
EX PARTE OR LATE FILE

7908000034 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

14-28
29

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

James Mullis
269 DEL MAR CT
SN LUIS OBISP, CA 93405-1503

No. of Copies rec'd 1
List ABCDE

CitizenLetter®

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7908000020 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Dennis Hadenfeldt
1229 POMEROY RD
ARROYO GRANDE, CA 93420-5952

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7908000013 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Rose
40 BERKELEY ST
BOSTON, MA 02116-6316

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7908000008 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Carl Hyde
151 W NORTH COLLEGE ST
YELLOW SPGS, OH 45387-1512

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7908000005 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Brad Frommelt
1573 DANA DR APT 123
REDDING, CA 96003-4806

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000045 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

William Mowery
2228 OLD PHILADELPHIA PIKE
LANCASTER, PA 17602-3417

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000042 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Virginia Turner
17 BERGWALL WAY
VALLEJO, CA 94591-6705

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000038 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Robert Marcom
10314 BRIDGELAND LN
HOUSTON, TX 77041-8820

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000035 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Patricia ORourke
3863 SHADOWHILL DR
SANTA ROSA, CA 95404-2726

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000033 PRESORT ◁

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Mary Artesani
8131 SAN ANGELO DR APT 9
HUNTINGTON BEACH, CA 92647-7267

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000020 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Krista Finlay
1315 BATH ST APT 9
SANTA BARBARA, CA 93101-8642

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000018 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

JoAnne Dodd
5530 RADFORD RD
ATHENS, OH 45701-9369

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000016 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Joann Shargey
PO BOX 27572
MINNEAPOLIS, MN 55427-0572

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000009 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Diane Dickinson
1057 WICKFIELD WAY
SANTA ROSA, CA 95401-9116

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000003 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Beth Danon
100 W CANAL ST APT 14
WINOOSKI, VT 05404-2156

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7908000073 PRESORT ⇄

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Sharon Wilensky
1355 12TH AVE
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94122-2213

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000070 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Sarah Veters
2158 CENTRAL AVE APT D
ALAMEDA, CA 94501-2844

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7908000067 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Hyde
1529 E CHANDLER DR
SALT LAKE CTY, UT 84103-4220

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7908000063 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Morgan Rankin
222 ICE CREAM GRADE
SANTA CRUZ, CA 95060-9487

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7906000060 PRESORT ⇄

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the Internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Michael Currie
1943 STEWART AVE
NEW HYDE PARK, NY 11040-1625

CitizenLetter®

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

EX PARTE OR LATE FILE

03/19/2014

7908000042 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Kristen Clarke
6505 CANON WREN DR
AUSTIN, TX 78746-3807

CitizenLetter®

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/13/2014

EX PARTE OR LATE FILE™

2851000101 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

John Williamson
188 PIONEER PKWY W APT 4
SPRINGFIELD, OR 97477-4502

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

EX PARTE OR LATE FILED

03/18/2014

3725000110 PRESORT ⇄

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected
MAR 27 2014
FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Richard Baker
463 YALE ST
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94134-1629

EX PARTE OR LATE FILE

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/18/2014

3725000108 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Phillip Grigsby
1638 AVENUE A
SCHENECTADY, NY 12308-2224

EX PARTE OR LATE FILED

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/18/2014

3723000036 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

James Windholtz
5130 NW 27TH ST
MARGATE, FL 33063-1641

EX PARTE OR LATER
EX PARTE OR LATER

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7908000049 PRESORT

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

M Corwin Drake
25 CROSSLANDS DR
KENNETT SQ, PA 19348-2008

EX PARTE OR LATE F

CitizenLetter®

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7908000025 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Kingseed
7930 BRAINARD WOODS DR
DAYTON, OH 45458-2906

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

EX PARTE OR LATE FILED

03/19/2014

7908000030 PRESORT <>

 FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected

MAR 27 2014

FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Harold Cox
19 2ND AVE
ROEBLING, NJ 08554-1001

EX PARTE OF LATE FILED

CitizenLetter[®]

An urgent message from a concerned citizen.

03/19/2014

7908000032 PRESORT <>

FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554-0005

Received & Inspected
MAR 27 2014
FCC Mail Room

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

In January, Verizon won a ruling from a federal appeals court that struck down the Federal Communications Commission's Open Internet Order of 2010. The ruling essentially killed net neutrality, the principle that guarantees a free and open internet for all.

We support your efforts to preserve net neutrality and the necessary legal framework to defend it, like your recent statement that "it is essential that the FCC continue to maintain an open Internet and maintain the legal ability to intervene promptly and effectively in the event of aggravated circumstances." But your proposal to update the Open Internet Order doesn't go nearly far enough to preserve net neutrality in a way that will stand up to legal scrutiny.

As the recent court case demonstrates, reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service is the only way to save net neutrality.

I urge you to save the internet and keep broadband networks open, accessible and affordable for everyone by reclassifying broadband internet access as a telecommunications service.

Please let me know how you intend to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Henry Walters
1476 W COUNTY RD
CALAIS, VT 05648-7579

