

7521099914.txt

We are already behind the rest of the world in internet infrastructure and pay the most for the least . Stop the big comm from innovating (when they can squash bandwidth needs why improve infrastructure ? and make money doing it) and squash the small guys from innovating directly by pricing them out and preventing competition. Bad for the consumer and the future of tech. the FCC MUST designate internet services as public utilities like every other country in the world