

7521100041.txt

Giving holders of the pipeline i.e. the owners of the cable in the street the ability to choose the speed of delivery according to who owns the content is the most anti-democratic position to come forward with. The internet should be classified as a public utility with the charge of giving all the right to equal access, etc. Please do not do this.