Providers such as comcast will be double dipping. You will have netflix paying to get to comcasts subscribers and subscribers paying to get to netflix. And not only netflix, what about public sites that can't afford to pay big companies? There are thousands of sites that will get buried once other big name sites start paying internet companies. The internet should be a fair and equal market. Not something you can buy your way to the top of.
On another note, a provider of the internet should stay just that. Not a restrictor.
