

7521101025.txt

This is a not-so-thinly veiled attempt at the destruction of Net Neutrality. The ISPs must be reclassified as common carriers immediately, as internet access is a vital part of infrastructure for the public good. Due to the ISPs writing policies such as this one, the US has fallen behind the rest of the developed world in connectivity by every meaningful metric. This current stroke against internet users and content providers will be the nail in the coffin.