Please reclassify broadband providers as a common carriers.

I am a small business owner who creates educational videos for free use by teachers and students (<http://www.youtube.com/crashcourse>). We have around 100,000,000 views. As you might imagine, the margins aren't super-high, but we believe in what we do. If our content is slowed because other, more well-funded companies are able to pay, we could lose out to much more well-funded competition (that charge for their videos) very quickly.

Please keep the playing field level and don't make broadband companies make me pay to access consumers who are paying to access us already.
