

A neutral internet has become a vital facet of our liberties in this country and in countries around the globe. It is protected by our First Amendment rights, would be considered by most Americans as a tyrannical act of suppression, and one of the last examples of laissez faire in our current world. Since the very beginning, the freedom to exchange information has been a fundamental right for the people in this country. Do not change this now.