

7521102014.txt

The new net neutrality proposal should not be passed into law. The internet should be open and free, and not in any way hindered by the regulations included in this new proposal.