I vehemently urge the FCC to reclassify broadband internet as a telecommunications service. The free flow of ideas is not only necessary but crucial to the development of our country and the world at large. Limiting these ideas will only hamper the United States in long term growth and innovation. Please, do not allow corporations to further squeeze the system for more profit. I can only hope that the members of the FCC stand up for the citizens of this country and redefine the internet as a telecommunications service to the benefit of all Americans.
