

7521104198.txt

The internet has become a vital instrument to the education, entertainment, and economic life of all Americans and should be classified as a common carrier to protect us from the dangers of unregulated corporations.