

7521104494.txt

Net Neutrality must be preserved at all costs. Not in some Orwellian "some services are more equal than others" sense, but in the purest, truest level-playing-field sense. There is no other choice but dissent for the recent FCC decision to allow ISPs to charge for premium service. This first step down the slipperiest slope MUST be retracted for the sake of humanity.