

7521104864.txt

Net neutrality should be preserved for many reasons. The notion that the lack of neutrality will create jobs and competitive pricing is ridiculous. New businesses will be unable to compete with entrenched monolithic companies, like Google. It is a blatant attempt for cable companies to recoup the cost of their failing cable business model.