Obviously the FCC has been bought and sold to the highest bidder. The end of net neutrality, can signal nothing less to the American people.

The telcoms that have put an end to net neutrality, have also put an end to the FCC as a legitimate government agency. It did not help that the head of the FCC is a former lobbyist for the telcoms, who may have been willing to prostitute himself to the telcoms, for however much money - and/or compensation - that they were willing to give him.

I submit that a formal investigation should be made into the financial affairs of Tom Wheeler, currently the head of the FCC, to discover how much bribe money may have been deposited into his accounts, as compensation for his actions in ending net neutrality.

I also submit, that an investigation should be made in his financial affairs, for the purpose of discovering how much bribe money that he may have acquired through Comcast.

I also submit, that should he be found guilty of these charges, that Tom Wheeler should be removed from the FCC, and incarcerated at the nearest available penal institution.
